

Introduction: Recipes, Households, and Everyday Knowledge

Chapter 1. Making Recipe Books in Early Modern England: Material Practices and the Social Production of Knowledge

Chapter 2. Managing Health and Household from Afar

Chapter 3. Collecting Recipes Step-by-Step

Chapter 4. Recipe Trials in the Early Modern Household

Chapter 5. Writing the Family Archive: Recipes and the Paperwork of Kinship

Chapter 6. Recipes for Sale: Intersections between Manuscript and Print Cultures

Conclusion: Recipes Beyond the Household

Acknowledgments

Notes

Bibliography

Index