

Contents

Acknowledgments xi

Part 1. Overview

Chapter 1. Nodes of Convergence, Material Complexes, and Entangled Itineraries 5

Pamela H. Smith

Chapter 2. Trans-Eurasian Routes of Exchange: A Brief
Historical Overview 25

Tansen Sen and Pamela H. Smith

Part 2. Entangled Itineraries: Modes of Approach

Chapter 3. The Silk Roads as a Model for Exploring Eurasian Transmissions of Medical Knowledge: Views from the Tibetan Medical Manuscripts of Dunhuang 47

Ronit Yoeli-Tlalim

Chapter 4. Things (Wu) and Their Transformations (Zaowu) in the Late Ming Dynasty: Song Yingxing's and Huang Cheng's
Approaches to Mobilizing Craft Knowledge 63

Dagmar Schäfer

- Chapter 5. Curative Commodities between Europe and Southeast Asia, 1500–1700 79
Tara Alberts
- Chapter 6. Translating the Art of Tea: Naturalizing Chinese Savoir Faire in British Assam 99
Francesca Bray
- Part 3. Material Complexes in Motion
- Chapter 7. The Itinerary of Hing/Awei/Asafetida across Eurasia, 400–1800 141
Angela Ki Che Leung and Ming Chen
- Chapter 8. Smoke and Silkworms: Itineraries of Material Complexes across Eurasia 165
Pamela H. Smith, Joslyn DeVinney, Sasha Graft, and Xiaomeng Liu
- Chapter 9. Itineraries of Images: Agents of Integration in the Buddhist Cosmopolis 182
Tansen Sen
- Chapter 10. Itineraries of Inkstones in Early Modern China 202
Dorothy Ko

Part 4. Convergences and the Emergence of New Objects of Knowledge

Chapter 11. Convergences in and around Bursa: Sufism,
Alchemy, Iatrochemistry in Turkey, 1500–1750 227

Feza Günergün

Chapter 12. A Wooden Skeleton Emerges in the Knowledge Hub of Edo Japan 258

Chang Che-chia

Notes 283

Bibliography 327

Contributors 379

Index 383