

Program: “Experiencing the Global Environment” Authors’ Workshop
 August 2-4, 2016
 Max Planck Institute for the History of Science, Berlin

Aug 2	9:30-9:45	Introductions
	9:45-11:15	Jeremy Vetter , Experiential and Cosmopolitan Knowledge: The U.S. Bureau of Biological Survey during the Railroad Era	Comment by E. Aronova
	11.15-11.30	Coffee Break
	11.30-13.00	Philipp Lehmann , Average Rainfall and the Play of Colors: Atmospheric Scales in Colonial Africa	Comment by F. Fan
	13:00-14:30	Lunch (MolGen)
	14.30-16.00	Elena Aronova , Seismic Sensors and Animal Senses: Making Glocal Seismological Data at the US Geological Survey in 1970s California.	Comment by P. Lehmann
	16.00-16.15	Coffee Break
	16.15-17.45	Angela Creager , Biomonitoring for Environmental Health and Regulation	Comment by D. Coen
	18:15	Dinner
Aug 3	9.30-11.00	Etienne Benson , The Amazon in the Back Yard: Embodied Experience and Scale-Invariant Processes in Twentieth-Century Fluvial Geomorphology	Comment by J. Vetter
	11.00-11.15	Coffee Break
	11.15-12.45	Fa-Ti Fan , Can Animals Predict Earthquakes?: A Transnational History of Earthquake Prediction, 1960s-80s	Comment by L. Camprubí
	12.45-14.00	Lunch (MPI)
	14.00-15.30	Deborah Coen , Plants as Probes of the Planetary Past	Comment by E. Benson
	15.30-15.45	Coffee Break
	15.45-17:15	Lino Camprubí , Experience as Doing: ‘Observing’ the Sea Level at a Prototypical Strait	Comment by A. Creager
	10:00	Editors meet
Aug 4	11.00-12.30	Final Discussion (with Norton Wise)	